

Thank you for visiting Ohio Legal Help!

This page will walk you through the process of filling out this form.

What this file contains

This file contains the Revocation of Financial Power of Attorney form for Ohio. Use this form to cancel your previously signed Financial Power of Attorney (FPOA). You have the right to end the rights of your FPOA at any time.

If you decide to end your FPOA, tell your agent. They must stop acting on your behalf once you tell them that you revoke the power of attorney.

Here's what to do next.

Step 1. Attach a copy of the original Financial Power of Attorney form.

Step 2. Sign the form in front of a notary public.

Step 3. Make copies. After the form is signed, make several photocopies.

Step 4. Share the form. Send a copy of the revocation to your old agent and any financial institutions, like banks, that have a copy of the FPOA on file. If your Financial Power of Attorney gave your agent authority over real estate and was recorded in the County Recorder's Office, you need to file this form in the same County Recorder's Office.
